BURGLARS ENTER HOMES OF RICH

The homes of Dr. Virgil F. Gibney, famous orthopedic surgeon of this city and New York, at 652 Waldemere avenue and of L. B. Curtis, president of the Bridgeport Manufacturers' association and of the manufacturing concern of Curtis & Curtis, at 252 Waldemere avenue were burglarized last night, the loot comprising several thousand dollars worth of jewelry. Dr. Gibney discovered the visit to his home shortly before midnight when, upon entering his bedroom on the second floor, he stumbled over a pile of silverware. It was apparently abandoned when the visitors heard Dr. Gibney ascending the stairs. A few minutes later Mr. Curtis discovered that his bedroom had been ransacked and investigation showed that the rest of the house had been carefully gone over. On the window ledges of the bedrooms had been ransacked and considered to be finger prints and left intact for Detective Sergeant Haux of police headquarters Bertling department to investigate. The "gentlemen burglars" who have been "working" the city for months are believed to be responsible. It is thought the burglars worked between 9 and 11 o'clock while the band concert at Seaside park was in progress. Many strangers were passing along Waldemere avenue at that time. Dr. Gibney's family was out motoring. Mr. Curtis' family was on the first floor of the house.

Members of the gang of second story men, who have been successfully "working" Bridgeport for months past, are spending their time in detection through the use of the most modern methods known to the criminal world. Headquarters detectives, through information coming to them within the past few days, have learned that not only are gloves worn to prevent identification by finger prints, but that other means of disguise are made use of. Quick change of clothing, the extra suit being either worn or carried with the equipment of the gang, is said to be one important method in baffling detection.

Suspicious characters noted near places where "jobs" have been pulled off have been reported as carrying an extra pair of trousers and coat. In other instances it has been reported that evidence has been gained that suspicious characters wear a double suit. If the person is brought in by policemen, those called upon to identify him find that he is dressed entirely different from the one they saw.

Search is still being kept up for two mysterious girls suspected of being responsible for numerous petty larceny "jobs." Two were caught a week ago who admitted a number of breaks. Indications are that there are several others involved in local robberies.
